

Do you know what the difference is between your 'material' or physical presence and your spiritual presence?!...

An example of your physical or 'material' presence would be your brain and the workings of your brain!!...

An example of your spiritual presence would be your thoughts!!... Think of it!!... Your thoughts have no physical dimensions!! ... No mass, no height, no width, no length, no temperature, no color, no speed, no wavelength - NO PHYSICAL DIMENSIONS AT ALL!! ...

To say that your brain and the workings of your brain represent the physical dimension of thought would be like saying a flashlight and your finger turning it on represents the physical dimension of light!!

What is an example of Spiritual Force?!...

A tumbleweed's movement as it blows across a yard is a result of an interaction of physical forces ruled by the physical laws of nature!!...

The movement of a dog running around the same yard is the result of decisions made by its Spiritual Force within the limits of its physical world and the constraints of the physical laws of nature!!...

The religion we call Modern Science - but could be more accurately called 'Scientism' (which - by - way - often has little if any basis in true science) would have us believe that there is no such thing!!

Which leads to the next question - are thoughts created by the electro-chemical actions of the brain - or is it the other way around?!...

Looking at it this way - maybe we truly are Spirits in the Material World!!

One last thing to consider!!... That which does not have a physical existence - can not suffer a physical death!!...

Think about it!!

- Randy

Two Haiku

If You Are Seeking

*If you are seeking
Truth by following a path
You will not find it*

Because Truth Only

Can be found on a path of
Of your own creation*

In The Cool of the Evening

*I saw you walking in the cool of the evening
I saw you treading down this trail of tears
I glimpsed your face and beheld you were smiling
But with your smile you confirmed all my fears*

*For I could see
That you wanted me
And there was nothing I could do
To make you want to change your mind*

*I closed my eyes in this cool of the evening
I remembered back to when I was but a child
The autumn wind blew through my gathered leaves of reason
Scattering the bravest ones far away from their pile*

*Then I could see
My mother was holding me
She would be sad
To see me alone with you now*

(In The Cool of the Evening
Page Two)

Lived in the woods then I lived in the city
Lived in jungles that had no trees
Lived with passion in the heat of the moment
Lived with the sadness of this final disease

But we can talk
And as we walk
You can tell me all
That you know about eternity

Outside this hospital room the crickets are singing
They sing a lonesome song especially for me
Tomorrow is the bright hope I never shall visit Tonight is the last night I ever shall be

For I can see
That you're waiting for me
Through the sad mist
Of my wistful memories

The Sprinkler in the Cemetery

The sprinkler in the cemetery
rains on my heart tonight Deep in my coffin cell safe from the mad moonlight Above me the wind whisper's soft and low

*"There are somethings you learn
There are somethings you know*

*Learn that change is always constant and that which is constant does not change
That a kingdom in drought needs water more then a king's reign
But know the pages of your heart never again will be read
For your heart shrivels black soon after you are dead"*

The Sprinkler In The Cemetery - Page Two

She often speaks thusly
in such curious tongues

Prayers and parables
and peculiar puns

I have listened intently to every thing that she has said
For though she haunts the living
She brings comfort to the dead

Yet it is true that I still do miss my life up above

For though there was suffering and hurt
there was also hope and love

But now the noise of naughty children near the stone above my head
Is a sound that brings solace to this slumber in whose nightmares where the dead

At the Beach Party

You know my sister
She lives in Florida
She tells me that in Florida
They have a lot of alligators

By the way - at the beach party
Do you know why
The alligator drank
All the soda?!

*Because his dinner
Already drank all the beers!!*

Why Santa Claus Lives at the North Pole

Do you know why Santa Claus
Lives at the North Pole?!

Too cold at the South Pole!!

*Plus - I hear there's better Cell phone coverage
